PARTICIPATION IN AABBA

The AABBA is a volunteer-managed, non-profit organization of Bed & Breakfast owners who are committed to excellence in inn-keeping and to community service. Members are dedicated, talented, and extremely busy B&B hosts. An organization the size of the AABBA necessitates that all members contribute some of their valuable time. The Association needs the participation of all members if it is to succeed and live up to its shared mission.

Participation in one or more of the following committees is a condition of membership.

Please choose the committee(s) in which you will participate from the list below.

- Membership Committee. The primary function is new member recruitment, retention, and membership communication.
- Program & Education Committee. The primary function is to plan monthly meetings and workshops.
- Standards & Ethics Committee. The primary function is to perform on-site peer reviews and inspections. In addition, this committee addresses all guest complaints received by the association.
- Publicity Committee. The primary function is to perform marketing tasks, draft or edit blog postings and other social media notes, monitor the association's website statistics, and issue public announcements, represent AABBA at local events.
- Administrative Committee. The purpose is to periodically evaluate the Association By-laws and to nominate members for elected offices. The Administrative Committee also conducts elections.
- Community Committee. The primary function is to plan and coordinate community events and fund-raising activities.
- Hotline Committee. The primary function is to plan and coordinate training and the distribution of the hotline telephone tools.
- Bylaws Committee. Purpose is to review and propose changes for member approval
- Board of Directors. Positions on the board are both elected and appointed. Members are asked to consider accepting this honor at least once over the term of their continuing membership.

Keep this and following pages for your records.
